St. George, Utah—May 22, 2007— E-learning has found a faster way to your desktop! LearnKey Elements announces true “on-demand” access to various video learning elements from our award-winning training. These “elements” represent only a fraction of the full LearnKey video courseware, but with the advantage of being readily searchable directly from any popular search engine such as Google, Yahoo or within the Elements Web site.

Video training clips of LearnKey experts will walk you through such things as formatting a Microsoft Word document or Excel spreadsheet, learning the basics of popular computer operating systems, or learning how to touch-up a photo in Photoshop!

Current training clips include:

Office Productivity - makes working in popular office software a breeze.

Web & Graphic Design - learn from industry experts how to easily bring your projects to life using Photoshop, Illustrator and InDesign, or make your website stand out with Dreamweaver.

Computer Fundamentals - quickly learn the basics of computing and how to set up security on your computer at home or the office.

New training clips will be added to cover database and networking in the near future.

Several hours worth of these LearnKey Elements are available for free preview. For as little as $9.95 per month, $25.95 for 90 days, or $79.95 for a full year, you will gain full access to the convenience and power of having an expert right inside your Google search bar!
