

Ransford Mensah, Principal Consultant at Certified Learning Solutions shares his experience with implementing LearnKey's OnlineExpert video based training courses to a group of 148 MTA exam candidates in the summer of 2012. It reports the resounding success the exam candidates had in jumping from an overall 20% previous pass rate to an average 90% pass rate for the MTA certification exams after using LearnKey training.

The difference was amazing. We expected to see improvement, but we were overjoyed with the results, and so were our customers. LearnKey training has made all the difference in how knowledgeable our customers can become in a very short time, and how well they are then prepared for the exam. LearnKey has become one of our staple training resources and we feel confident we are giving our customers the best solutions we can offer.

No company other than LearnKey has been able to provide this quality of training in the diverse regions of Ghana, and do it so successfully and at such an acceptable price point. We have proven that and now we are expanding our scope and will make LearnKey courses available to our customers in other African countries. Until we have easily available broadband Internet connectivity and low cost data, LearnKey has given us the solution that fills the gap in assisting our customers to become equally trained and to pass exams on par with any other country or group.
